

Join our Population Health Data Advisory Panel

Are you interested in how patient and public health data are used in research?

We are looking for members of the public (from East of England) to join our Population Health Data Advisory Panel - part of NIHR Applied Research Collaboration East of England (ARC EoE).

About NIHR ARC EoE

- Part of a national network (one of 15 ARCs across England).
- Funded by NIHR to improve the health and care of patients and the public.
- Brings together researchers, health and social care professionals and communities.
- Ensures research reflects the needs of people across the East of England.

About the Population Health Data Advisory Panel

- Sits within the Measurement in Health and Social Care theme of NIHR ARC EoE.
- Includes approximately 20 researchers and NHS staff from across the region.
- Strengthens collaboration across organisations.
- Addresses challenges around the safe and effective sharing of data.
- Helps improve the health of the people living in the East of England and beyond.
- See: ARC East of England Population Health Data Advisory Panel | ARC East of England

Your role

- Attend two panel meetings per year
  - o Attend a 30-minute pre meeting prior to the panel to discuss the agenda.
  - o Attend a two-hour panel meeting either online or in person (weekday lunchtime at Addenbrookes campus in Cambridge, with lunch provided).
  - o Contribute your views to discussions about data, research & public perspective.
- Outside of meetings:
  - o Help develop plain-language public information materials (such as the panel's terms of reference or descriptions of secure data environments).
  - o Attend an online introductory training session (1 hour) about the data panel and the wider health research environment.

What will be discussed?

- Research updates and new project ideas.
- Data access and data sharing.
- Information governance, data protection and informed consent.

Who we're looking for

- Interest in the use of administrative data e.g. government, council, charity, health, or large-organisation data (experience in administrative data is helpful but not essential).
- Interest in ethical issues around sharing, accessing and using data for research.
- Ability to bring a public perspective to discussions.

Because this opportunity is specifically for public contributors, we cannot accept applications from individuals who are working in healthcare, NHS policy/governance or a research organisation.

Support and payment

- An initial one-hour training session about the data panel and research environment.
- A dedicated public involvement contact who can answer questions.
- Optional payment for your time (either vouchers or payment) in line with NIHR public contributor payment policy of £27.50/hour:
  - o Training (1 hour) plus ongoing support as needed;
  - o Panel pre meeting (30mins, twice per year);
  - o Panel meetings (2 hours each, twice per year);
  - o Any additional work supporting production of public facing materials.
- Travel expenses reimbursed for in-person attendance.
- £5 for remote participation (covering home-working costs e.g. internet, printing).

Will payment affect tax or benefits?

- Payment is optional. You are responsible for informing HMRC of any payments received (we do not deduct tax or National Insurance from payments). Vouchers are also considered taxable income.
- Payment may affect state benefits - inform Jobcentre Plus if applicable.

Accessibility

- We aim to be inclusive and accessible.
- Information available in different formats such as audio or easy read.
- In person meetings are wheelchair accessible held on the ground floor with toilets.
- Reasonable adjustments available – just let us know.
